AMERICAN BEAUTY

Mandy Moore has all-American style down pat: In her normal day-to-day life, the 22-year-old singer-turned-actress opts for fuss-free basics such as cashmere V-necks, Grass jeans, Coach flats, and quirky, colorful Marc Jacobs pieces. But at our cover shoot, she welcomed the opportunity to indulge her more glamorous side, as she took a turn in the dozens of designer dresses, shoes, and accessories that the ELLE editors amassed for her shoot. Moore—whose work schedule barely allows her time to hit her favorite boutique, Mayle, when she's in NYC—even shopped from our racks of carefully edited picks. Vintage-inspired jewelry turned out to be her fashion obsession, as she took home a gold bracelet, a locket, and an enamel ring. And no wonder: As every cover girl knows, a few key accessories is all it takes to transform a simple T-shirt and jeans into a totally of-the-moment look.
